ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9, 2015 -- Arch Coal, Inc. (NYSE: ACI) today reported a net loss of $2.0 billion, or $93.91 per diluted share, for the quarter ending September 30, 2015. The company recorded a $2.1 billion asset impairment charge during the quarter and incurred $149 million of losses related to the bankruptcy of Patriot Coal. Excluding asset impairments, losses related to the Patriot Coal bankruptcy and amortization of sales contracts, Arch's third quarter 2015 adjusted net loss was $3.38 per diluted share compared with an adjusted net loss of $4.52 per adjusted diluted share in the prior-year quarter. Revenues totaled $689 million in the third quarter of 2015, and adjusted earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, depletion and amortization ("EBITDA") was $135 million.

For the first nine months of 2015, Arch generated adjusted EBITDA of $262 million compared with $164 million in the prior-year period. Total revenues declined to $2.0 billion for the nine months ended September 30, 2015, largely due to lower metallurgical coal prices and output.

"From an operational perspective, Arch delivered an exceptionally strong performance during the quarter," said John W. Eaves, Arch's chairman and chief executive officer. "Our results reflect the actions we have taken to respond to the challenging market environment, including reducing costs and enhancing efficiency across the company. Thanks to the efforts of our skilled employees, we increased cash margins in each of our three operating regions and continued to build on our industry-leading safety and environmental stewardship records. Despite these efforts, however, the difficult conditions impacting the coal industry persist, and we expect they will continue throughout 2016."

Financial Position

"As demonstrated by our third quarter results, our operations continue to generate a significant amount of cash; and we are maintaining sufficient liquidity to continue operating as normal," said John T. Drexler, Arch's senior vice president and chief financial officer. "Our cash flow, however, is not sufficient to service our debt sustainably in this operating environment. As a result, Arch will require a significant restructuring of its balance sheet to continue to operate as a going concern over the long term. We are currently in active dialogue with various creditors with respect to a restructuring of our balance sheet. Our mining operations and customer shipments are continuing as normal and we continue to have sufficient liquidity and no near-term maturities. Regardless of what path we ultimately choose, we expect to continue providing our customers the same high quality services they have come to expect from Arch."

Arch has elected to terminate its $250 million revolver which will become effective on November 11, 2015. The company had no borrowings under its revolver and no intention to borrow under it. On a pro-forma basis, taking into consideration the termination of the revolver, Arch had liquidity of $704.4 million at September 30, 2015 with $694.5 million of that in cash and liquid securities.

Core Values

Arch's focus on safety and environmental excellence led to continued progress throughout 2015, with five complexes completing the quarter with A Perfect Zero – the dual accomplishment of operating without a reportable safety incident or environmental violation. Through the end of the third quarter, Arch's total-incident rate was three times better than the industry average and on pace to be the best in the Company's history. Also, Arch's year-to-date 2015 environmental performance represents a nearly 40 percent improvement when compared to the first nine months of 2014 and is on track to set a new company record in environmental compliance.

During the third quarter, Arch's Mountain Laurel complex in Appalachia was honored with the national Good Neighbor Award by the U.S. Department of Interior for demonstrating the nation's best stewardship practices of the past year. Arch Coal subsidiaries have earned six national Good Neighbor Awards since the program was established. Additionally, in September the Coal Creek mine in the Powder River Basin completed two years without a reportable safety incident.

"We are pleased that our exemplary stewardship practices and community involvement were recognized at the national level," said Paul A. Lang, Arch president and chief operating officer. "These accomplishments and continued improvements are a direct result of our employees' unwavering commitment to our core values. We continue to make great progress toward Arch's ultimate safety and environmental goals."

Operational Results

"In addition to continuing our focus on reducing costs and operating efficiently, we also increased shipment levels in two of our three operating regions," said Lang. "We reduced per-ton cash costs by 22 percent in Appalachia, driven by the strong productivity at our two longwall operations, and by 8 percent in the Powder River Basin, helped by higher shipment levels."

Consolidated results may not tie to regional breakout due to exclusion of other assets, rounding. Cash cost per ton is defined and reconciled under "Reconciliation of non-GAAP measures." Operating cost per ton is the sum of cash costs and depreciation, depletion and amortization expense divided by tons sold. Arch's operations increased operational cash flow margins during the third quarter. On a consolidated basis, Arch earned $4.35 per ton in cash margin during the third quarter of 2015 compared with $2.82 per ton in the second quarter of 2015, reflecting the impact of increased volumes in the company's Powder River Basin segment, high productivity in its Appalachian segment and lower per-ton costs across the operating platform. Consolidated sales price per ton decreased more than 6 percent due to continued weakness in coal markets and a larger percentage of Powder River Basin volumes, but was more than offset by a decrease in per-ton costs.

In the Powder River Basin, third quarter cash margin increased $0.72 to $2.97 per ton versus the second quarter. The increase was due to lower cash cost per ton largely attributable to higher shipment levels and continuing cost control efforts. The average sales price per ton declined reflecting lower contracted pricing, particularly on indexed volumes.

In Appalachia, Arch's cash margin per ton more than tripled to $13.28 per ton from $2.97 per ton in the second quarter due to significant improvement in cash costs per ton. The decrease reflects increased output at Arch's two longwall operations, particularly the Leer mine. Prior quarter per-ton costs were impacted by longwall moves at both Leer and Mountain Laurel. Average sales price per ton decreased due to continued deterioration in metallurgical markets.

In the Bituminous Thermal segment, third quarter cash margin per ton increased to $10.35 per ton, due to a decrease in cash costs per ton. The improvement in cash costs per ton was driven by increased shipment levels and production volume at the West Elk mine. Average sales price per ton declined slightly to $30.20, reflecting lower pricing on contracted tons.

Market Trends

Low natural gas prices, record high natural gas inventories, weak electric power demand and multiple coal plant closures stemming from the implementation of new environmental regulations led to a steep decline in domestic coal-based power generation. As a result of these factors, Arch now expects domestic thermal coal consumption to decline by 95 million tons during 2015. While supply cuts are well underway and will reduce U.S. thermal coal production markedly during the year, Arch nevertheless expects stockpiles at U.S. power generators to climb to more than 185 million tons, or over 90 days of supply, at year-end. These inflated levels are expected to dampen thermal coal demand and pricing throughout next year.

Conditions in U.S. metallurgical coal markets remain challenging as well due to deteriorating global steel demand, continued strong output from Australia and a strong U.S. dollar that hinders U.S. competitiveness.

"We believe that announced production cuts and the continued lack of investment in new metallurgical production simply will not be enough to balance the market, and that additional reductions will be necessary across our industry," Lang said. "As a result, we expect pricing for both metallurgical and thermal coal to remain under significant pressure throughout 2016."

Arch Coal, Inc. and Subsidiaries Reconciliation of Non-GAAP Measures (In thousands, except per share data)

Included in the accompanying release, we have disclosed certain non-GAAP measures as defined by Regulation G. The following reconciles these items to net income and cash flows as reported under GAAP.

Adjusted EBITDA

Adjusted EBITDA is defined as net income attributable to the Company before the effect of net interest expense, income taxes, depreciation, depletion and amortization, and the amortization of acquired sales contracts. Adjusted EBITDA may also be adjusted for items that may not reflect the trend of future results.

Adjusted EBITDA is not a measure of financial performance in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and items excluded from Adjusted EBITDA are significant in understanding and assessing our financial condition. Therefore, Adjusted EBITDA should not be considered in isolation, nor as an alternative to net income, income from operations, cash flows from operations or as a measure of our profitability, liquidity or performance under generally accepted accounting principles. We believe that Adjusted EBITDA presents a useful measure of our ability to incur and service debt based on ongoing operations. Furthermore, analogous measures are used by industry analysts to evaluate our operating performance. In addition, acquisition related expenses are excluded to make results more comparable between periods. Investors should be aware that our presentation of Adjusted EBITDA may not be comparable to similarly titled measures used by other companies. The table below shows how we calculate Adjusted EBITDA.

Adjusted net loss and adjusted diluted loss per share

Adjusted net loss and adjusted diluted loss per common share are adjusted for the after-tax impact of acquisition related costs and are not measures of financial performance in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. We believe that adjusted net loss and adjusted diluted loss per common share better reflect the trend of our future results by excluding items relating to significant transactions. The adjustments made to arrive at these measures are significant in understanding and assessing our financial condition. Therefore, adjusted net loss and adjusted diluted loss per share should not be considered in isolation, nor as an alternative to net loss or diluted loss per common share under generally accepted accounting principles.

Cash costs per ton

Cash costs per ton exclude the costs of depreciation, depletion and amortization and pass-through transportation costs, and may be adjusted for other items that, due to accounting rules, are classified in "other income/expense" on the statement of operations, but relate directly to the costs incurred to produce coal. Cash costs per ton are not measures of financial performance in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. We believe cash costs per ton better reflect our controllable costs and our operating results by including all cash costs incurred to produce coal. The adjustments made to arrive at these measures are significant in understanding and assessing our financial condition. Therefore, cash costs per ton should not be considered in isolation, nor as an alternative to cost of sales per ton under generally accepted accounting principles.
